	Q3: Do you have any questions, comments or concerns about the Draft Cemetery Regulations?
1	Yes when I buried my husbands ashes I had specific instructions to size of Tablet. On the sight of cremation plot certain tablets are by far larger. Also you say about size of headstones. A specific headstone approx halfway down cemetery is by far outside this remit and the person concerned is not a local. So how/why are they exemption to rules	1

5	No	3
7	When will we know if these are accepted.	4
9*	Generally, make perfect sense	5
9*	Section 3 (re memorial sizes). On Lawn grave, desk vase tablet 18" x 12" is permitted but permitted cremation tablet is only 14" x 9". 14" x 9" isn't big enough. A tablet that is 18" x 18" would be more noticeable and is a better space for wording memorialising 2 people. Should be specified that tablets are placed on concrete – would be better protected from mowing/strimming.	6
10*	Concerned that strimming around graves creates mess over headstones and memorials which is just left.	7
10*	Consider some graves in cemetery look "awful".	8
	Q7: Do you have any questions, comments or concerns about sections 8. and 9. of the Draft Cemetery Regulations?
1	You need to ensure that these rules are followed. On many occasion I have gone to cremation plot to place flowers and certain areas are over run with memorabilia	9
3	I believe you should let relatives plant small flowers and place memorabilia on their family graves as they see fit. If it is going to be a h&s issue then families would understand and tend to the plots themselves.	10
7	I think these are a good compromise.	11
9*	If memorial items can now be placed on top of cremation plaques. Could the integral flower vase in cremation extension now be optional? Would allow more space for text and would also make the graves of those who can't visit with flowers regularly look better.	12
10*	Feel that any items left on graves by children, in particular windmills, should be allowed provided they are not in the way.	13
11	We believe that the practices and the areas used for mementoes etc in the Original Cremation Area prior to 2014 should remain as they have always been, particularly as you have decided to keep everything in the Original Section prior to 2014, as it is. Prior to 2014 there was no designated dimensions to the Original Cremated remains site and in a lot of cases areas adjacent to memorial plaques have been used for mementoes, vases and the planting of bulbs etc. You must remember that a lot of the much older Cremation plaques do not have any facility for a vase within the plaque and your suggestion that memorials, flowers or potted	14 plants should be placed on the plaque, therefore covering any inscriptions, is not really acceptable. The securing of such mementoes etc will also be almost impossible. I accept that any new interments in this area should comply but I strongly feel that the existing ones should remain as they are.

12	Metric measurements of DMA are incorrect.	15
	Q8: Do you have any questions, comments or concerns about the proposed Procedure For Managing Regulation Infringements?
1	Yes ensure that all follow the rules. Whilst I respect others ways of grieving and how they wish their way of marking their family graves. It needs to be done tastefully and respectfully	16
3	I do not believe you should [not] remove items from relatives graves without first informing the family and asking them to remove.	17
7	No	19
8	yes	20
	Q9: Are there any further ways in which you think the Council could raise awareness of the Padstow Cemetery Regulations?
3	No	21
7	New signage is really good.	22
8	Yes	23
11	We understand that a Notice Board is to be placed in a prominent position and we believe this should be carried out as a matter of urgency. Not everyone has online facilities, therefore, it is very important that the Notice Board will display all important information regarding the Cemetery.	24
11	Telephone and emails should be used as a method of communicating with people as they tend to stay the same, whereas addresses do change and people forget to notify you.	25
11	All burial applications should be given the full Cemetery Rules	26
